These related to conveyancing, the law of antecedents and the like. #### PREPARES AN EXHIBIT. Local Y. M. C. A. to Be Represented in Jubilee Convention. The Young Men's Christian Association of this city has prepared an exhibit for the forthcoming great jubilee convention at Boston. It is now ready for inspection at the Y. M. C. A. and will be forwarded to Boston in a few days. The exhibit, which comprises work of the historical displays of the physical department and the educational department, respectively, as well as many miscellaneous displays, has been prepared by a committee of which Mr. Harry

O. Hine is chairman. In connection with the jubilee convention of Young Men's Christian Associations, to be held in Boston, June 11-16, 1901, it is regarded as eminently proper that there should be a jubilee exhibit. The object of this exhibit is not only to fittingly show the evolution of the association movement in North America during the past fifty years, but also to adequately represent the means used, and the varied character and quality of work done in the principal lines of activity in the different kinds of associations. As such it is believed that this exhibit will be one of the most important features of the convention, and of far-reaching significance to the movement as a whole.

As far as practicable the exhibit will be subdivided into the following departments: Historical. Bible study and religious work, educational work, physical work, boys' work; miscellaneous, including social work, women's auxiliaries, etc.

It is desired and expected that each state and provincial organization will prepare and arrange a few maps charts, and other graphic material, which will best show the evolution of the movement in its state or province from its organization to the present time. This material should include the photographs of the different secretaries serving the state since its organization, chairmen of the state committees, and any historical groups of men, conferences or state conventions; material graphically showing the development of the state force of supervision, the annual current expenses of such supervision; the growth of the total association membership, of the association property, of the local current ex-penses, etc., for each year from the organization of its state work to the present

THE GEORGETOWN ORCHESTRA .sioner. He resumed the practice of law The last concert of the Georgetown Orchestra took place Saturday night at the National Theater, and notwithstanding the inclement weather the house was filled with music-lovers, the friends and supporters of this admirable organization. This concert superseded by the Real Estate Title Insurance Company, Mr. Ashford being electchestra and no program it has offered was ever more brilliantly performed. The work of the orchestra in every number was satisfactory and evidenced the careful and intelligent rehearsals that had been given it by its able conductor, Prof. Josef Kasand when the curtain went up the sight was a pretty one. There is no discrimination of sex in regard to membership, and some of the best players are girls, whose attractive attire relieved the somber hue of the male dress suit. The appearance of Prof. Kaspar was greeted with loud applause, and the opening number, which was Beethoven's "Egmont" overture, was played in good form and with much spirit. Mendelssohn's Symphony in A minor, known as the Scotch symphony, was interpreted in excellent style, each of the movements receiving hearty applause, and at the close Prof. Kaspar had to bow his acknowledgments to the audience again and again. This, of course, was the piece de law department of Howard University this evening. The exercises will be held in the First Congregational Church, corner 10th best-known symphonies, and its reading showed the result of careful study on the part of the conductor and ready response on the part of his force. A novelty was a barcarolle by Fischer, lina; J. Thomas Butler, Pennsylvania; Jas.

R. Chambers, West Virginia; William W. lins, and among them were some players of very tender age, but they wielded their bows like veterans and seemed impressed rendition of this number was a splendid example of effective unison work and was loudly applauded. Miss Agnes Alden played the plano accompaniment to the barcarolle. The last number was Bizet's "L'Arlesienne" suite, a pleasing work which was well performed, and in the minuetto movement gave opportunity for a flute solo with harp accompaniment, the solo being played by Robert E. Seel and the accompaniment by Anita Cluss. whole suite was treated with excellent taste and delicacy. The soloists were Anton Kaspar, violinist, and Mary Helen Howe, soprano. Both are well known and quite popular here, and the reception of the work of each was in the nature of an ovation. Mr. Kaspar played Vieuxtemps' concerto for violin and orchestra, and in brilliancy of technique, beauty of tone and artistic interpretation proved his thorough mastery of the instrument. Mr. Kaspar has made rapid strides within the past year and has possibilities of becoming the foremost of violinists at no distant day. He has all the qualities necessary—great industry, perfect knowledge of the capabilities of the violin, excellent schooling and a thorough artistic temperament. Miss Howe sang Elsa's Dream from Wagner's "Lohengrin" as a program number, and the waltz song from "Romeo and Juliet" as an encore. That she measured up to the exacting requirements of the arnumber she essayed was apparent from the first note she uttered. conclusion of the aria Miss Howe was re-called and in graceful acknowledgment of the flowers presented to her and the ap-plause of the auditors sang the "Romeo plause of the auditors saing the "Romeo and Juliet" waltz song. This was received by the audience with demonstrations of approval. Miss Howe is the possessor of a large voice of good range, high culture, great flexibility and fine dramatic qualities. Her voice is not marred by even a suggestion of that vibrato which detracts from the work of so many otherwise clever singers. She sings each note clearly and singers. She sings each note clearly and musically, and the most intricate passages of the difficult songs she chose were executed with facility and felicity. Miss Howe was accompanied in her first number by Mr. Henry Xander, and in her second by Mr. Marie Honey har youngest eleter.

these gentlemen by their pupils and musical friends who compose the company. # LAW STUDENTS ENTERTAIN

EMINENT SPEAKERS AT COLUMBIAN UNIVERSITY DINNER.

Young Barristers Told How to Succeed

Nine eminent lawyers and jurists contributed their presence, their wit and their wisdom for the entertainment and edification of the 200 students of the Schools of Law and Diplomacy of Columbian University at the commencement dinner held at the Ebbitt House Saturday evening. Mr. W. A. McNeil of Tennessee, member of the second-year law class, presided and introduced the toastmaster.

In response to the toasts proposed and introductions given by Mr. Charles W. Needham, who officiated as toastmaster in a most jovial manner, speeches were made by Dr. Samuel H. Greene, John K. Richards, solicitor general of the Treasury Department; David J. Hill, assistant secretary of state; Judge Walter S. Cox, Justice John M. Harlan, Justice David J. Brewer, William A. Maury and Melville Church. The menu was uniquely set forth in the form of a legal "indenture." It was served to the mellow strains of a stringed orchestra, which, with the merriment of the students, arranged in classes around many glittering tables in the large, palmset banquet hall, combined to make a scene of brilliancy and inspiration that was most

When Dr. Greene arose to respond to the first toast, "Columbian University, enthusiasm was exactly tempered for per-fect oratory, and the full meed of praise which Dr. Greene bestowed on that institution found ready approval from every student.

The exact proportions in which "Law and Politics' should be mingled for success was strikingly illustrated by Solicitor General Richards. He pointed, as practical illustrations, to the eminent guests present, making humorous allusions to the success of each, and then said: "As for me, I suppose the committee in making up this program must have consulted some of my friends before assigning me this toast. I have heard that the politicians who know me are in the habit of saying that Richards is a pretty fair lawyer, but he knows nothing about politics; while, on the other hand, my rivals at the bar are wont to say that what Richards knows about law wouldn't hurt anybody, but he has an aggressive political pull which he works on every occasion. To be frank with you, I quite agree with both." Mr Richards then counseled his young auditors to study to make the proper mingling of law and politics. It was, he said, the only way to the highest success in the legal founding of the law department of Columbian University were given by Judge Cox, dean of the faculty. He was followed by Justice Harlan in a heart-to-heart talk with "The Young Lawyer."

"Do you appreciate sufficiently what it is to be a lawyer, and a young lawyer at that? No man is a fair lawyer who does not understand the government under which he lives. The lawyer more than any man molds the government. He is the most influential man in the community, and should take precedence of all others, it seems to me, but the priest. Lawyers have been the men to frame all others. been the men to frame all governments, and to lead in all political actions. The train-ing for a lawyer makes a man fit for any-thing. Secretaries of the Treasury have been made from lawyers. Men will look to you to tell them what are their rights and liberties, and you must help answer their questions. You are a man of responsibility. "There never was a time when the funda-"There never was a time when the funda-mental liberties of the people did not de-pend upon the heroism and hard work of lawyers. Successful lawyers have to be workers. There is nothing worth having that is not to be obtained by hard work. Young men will succeed if they have re-spect for the law. The greatest single inence in the world today is the United States, and if it proves true to the princi-ples of the Constitution it will advance the world and uplift people everywhere on the face of the earth.

After a eulogy on the "Honest Lawyer" delivered in a humorous strain by Mr. Maury, the banquet was closed by Melville Church speaking for the "Alumni."

The Stimulus

That is what is required by every organ of the body, for the proper performance of its functions.

It prevents biliousness, dyspepsia, constipation, kidney complaint, rheumatism, catarrh, nervousness, weakness, faintness, pimples, blotches and all cutaneous eruptions.

It perfects all the vital processes.

W. P. Keeton, Woodstock, Ala., took Hood's Sarsaparilla to make his blood pure. He writes that he had not felt well, but fired for some time. Before he had finished the first bottle of this medicine be felt better and when he had taken the second was like another man-free from that tired feeling and able to do his work.
